Chapter 1

Introduction

1.1 Example for itemization

Following an example for itemization and how it looks like

- item 1
- item 2
- item 3
- item 4
- item 5
- item 6

1.2 Section with abbreviations

Just to show, what it looks like in the list of abbreviations

American Standard Code for Information Interchange (ASCII)

1.3 Further section

Examples for a subsection

1.3.1 Example for a subsection

Example for a subsubsection

Chapter 2

2 Example with picture

Here we test picture and how this is shown

2.1 Picture with subtitle

be that you also have an idea of the picture, if only the subtitle read

In this text, i refer to the above-mentioned picture (see figure 2.1). For this, a so called brand has to be inserted in the picture (in this case: fig:testpicture). As image width is in this document 15cm chosen. This looks very passable in the text out. Try to stay consistent with the widths of the pictures. So 15cm and 10cm for example. This helps the reader and does not interrupt constantly in the reading flow.

2.2 A section on a new page in the same chapter

Chapter 3

Example for a table and a listing

3.0.1 Table with subtitle

| Col1 | Col2 | Col2 | Col3 |
|------|------|-------|------|
| 1 | 6 | 87837 | 787 |
| 2 | 7 | 78 | 5415 |
| 3 | 545 | 778 | 7507 |
| 4 | 545 | 18744 | 7560 |
| 5 | 88 | 788 | 6344 |

Table 3.1: Table to test captions and labels

3.1 Show code nicely

Here's an example of how to correctly render program code:

1 #include <stdio.h>
4 main()
5 {
6     int i;
7     for (i = 0; i<=2; i++)
8     {
9         fork();
10        setvbuf(stdout, NULL, _IOLBF, 0); //(Stream,
11        Pufferangabe, Puffertyp, Puffergroesse)
12        printf("PID=%6d, i=%d\n", getpid(), i);
13    }

Chapter 4

Topic: Quote

4.1 Citation

Here i quote from a particular book: This quote is from one special book that i have to specify in the end. There are even two books, just so you see that [1, 2]

Legislative texts, for example, need not to be quoted. Here is enough a reference in the footnote ¹

¹This is the super footnote, here is something of BGB §§12 Abs. 3 Satz 4

List of Figures
